

ARCHAEOLOGY

Courses Open to Visiting Students 2026-2027 academic year

Whether you have a background in archaeology or not, taking an archaeology course while you are in Galway is a great way to really broaden and enhance your overseas experience.
Come see for yourself!

Semester One

First Year Modules

- AR113 Prehistoric Ireland and Europe
- AR1104 Material Culture and Museums

Second Year Modules

- AR2103 Archaeology & Irish Identity - Celts, Christians, and Vikings
- AR2107 Ancient Civilizations – Mesopotamia, Egypt, Indus Valley, and Mesoamerica
- AR2108 Space, Place, and the Irish Landscape

Third Year Modules

- AR3106 The Bronze Age Roots of European Civilisation
- AR3104 Archaeological Post-excavation Analyses
- AR2101 Early Kingship: From Chaos to Cosmos

Semester Two

First Year Modules

- AR1105 Medieval Ireland and Europe
- AR1106 Sites and Monuments in the Landscape

Second Year Modules

- AR236 Interpretation in Archaeology
- AR245 Archaeology in Practice
- AR2106 Introduction to Excavation

Third Year Modules

- AR3108 Exploring the Past
- AR343 Public Archaeology
- AR347 Palaeoecology – Reconstructing Past Environments
- BSS2104 Introduction to Sustainability

For detailed descriptions and timetable information on all of these courses, please refer to the appropriate Student Handbook (1st, 2nd, or 3rd Year). These are available on the Archaeology Department website and in hard copy just outside the Admin. Office in the Archaeology Department.

Once you have registered for a course it will appear on your Canvas dashboard. We use Canvas to distribute course materials and to communicate with students so be sure to logon to Canvas regularly.

We are ready to help, so contact us with any questions you may have:

- Visiting Student Liaison for Archaeology is Dr. Carleton Jones, carleton.jones@universityofgalway.ie , Dr. Jones has first-hand experience of the American, English, and Irish university systems.
- Our secretary, Fiona Mc Inerney may be contacted at fiona.mcinerney@nuigalway.ie between 9am to 1pm.

The courses open to visiting students are each worth 5 ECTS (European Credit Transfer System) and they do not have prerequisites – all are welcome!

