Institute for Lifecourse and Society - ILAS

ILAS Annual Research Showcase

Discover, Connect, Collaborate.

The Institute for Lifecourse and Society (ILAS) at the University of Galway is committed to advancing scientific knowledge and practical understanding of human capacity and potential across the life course. Through our research, partnerships and engagement, we strive to influence knowledge, attitudes, policy and practice, contributing to our vision of enabling equity across the life course for individuals and communities.

Join us for the ILAS Annual Research Showcase, an engaging day dedicated to discovering research, sharing ideas and strengthening connections across disciplines and communities. The event will showcase the work of ILAS Research Centres, highlighting innovative research taking place across the Institute and in collaboration with colleagues, community partners and collaborators within and beyond the University of Galway.

Whether you are a student, researcher, practitioner, policymaker or community partner, the showcase offers an opportunity to explore emerging research, exchange perspectives and discover opportunities for future collaboration.
