Fáiltiú | Welcome

September 2024

Dear student,

As Programme Director for the LLM (Criminology, Criminal Justice and Human Rights) and on behalf of the staff of the School of Law and the Irish Centre for Human Rights, it my great pleasure to welcome you to University of Galway. The School of Law greatly values the contribution of its postgraduate students to the life of the School, Centres and College and we hope that your time with us will be inspiring and rewarding.

The LLM (Criminology, Criminal Justice and Human Rights) offers excellent opportunities to extend your knowledge and tailor your studies to your particular area of interest. In addition to the bespoke cross-disciplinary and research-led modules at the heart of the programme, students can also take a range of modules offered across the School and at the Irish Centre for Human Rights - one of the world's premier academic human rights institutions with a global reputation for excellence in teaching, research and advocacy.

Students will have the opportunity to attend conferences, work and publish with leading international NGOs, join visits to criminal justice institutions, enjoy the Crime, Punishment and Rights Film Series and build their curriculum vitae. We very much hope that you take advantage of these opportunities.

The purpose of this handbook is to provide general information on postgraduate studies and specific information on the LLM (Criminology, Criminal Justice and Human Rights). If there is anything that you wish to know and that is not covered in this guide, please do not hesitate to contact me.

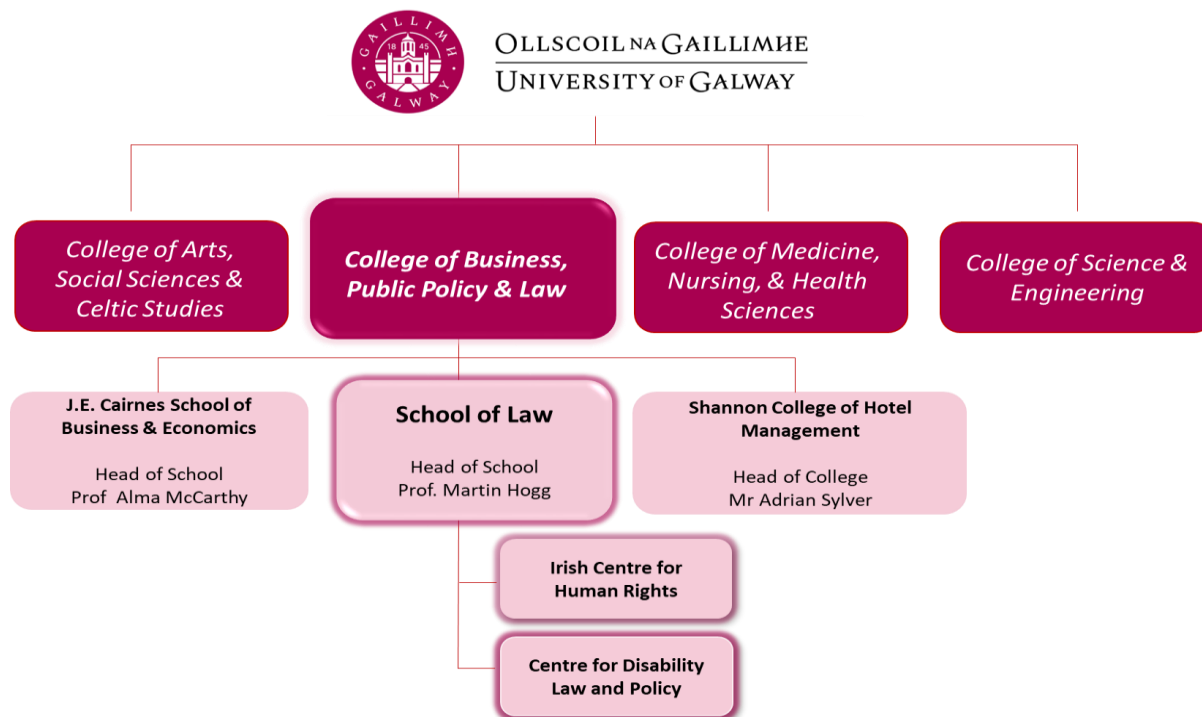

I wish you the very best for your studies at the School of Law and Irish Centre for Human Rights over the forthcoming year.

Regards,

Dr Róisín Mulgrew

<http://www.library.universityofgalway.ie>

Effective use of the library is a crucially important part of legal education. Students should take advantage of every opportunity to familiarise themselves with the library and the services it offers. Nowadays, many excellent services are available through electronic sources (located on the ground floor of the library). Training sessions are available, and details may be found at the information desk located in the library.

COURSE OVERVIEW

The LLM in Criminology, Criminal Justice and Human Rights recognises the inescapable reality that criminal justice issues cannot be understood without also understanding underpinning human rights law norms and obligations. Delivered by staff from the Crime, Punishment and Rights Research Cluster and the Irish Centre for Human Rights, the programme emphasises the exploration of inter-disciplinary intersections, while supporting the development of research and advocacy skills.

To inspire intellectual curiosity and support academic attainment, research-led modules that bridge the disciplines of criminology and criminal justice, law and human rights are delivered by leading experts. While the programme is structured to ensure graduates have completed specialist modules (core and compulsory cross-disciplinary modules), students can also tailor their individual programme by selecting optional modules from the wide range on offer across the School of Law and the Irish Centre for Human Rights.

Semester	ECTS
Semester 1	3 Modules (30 ECTS)
Semester 2	3 Modules (30 ECTS)
Summer	Minor Thesis (30 ECTS) (15,000 words)

FULL-TIME MODE

The LLM (Criminology, Criminal Justice & Human Rights) is a one-year programme of full-time study, combining two semesters of course work and the preparation of a minor thesis. It aims to prepare graduates for work in law firms, criminal justice agencies, with national and international organisations and courts, and government and non-governmental organisations.

In Semester 1, students must take the compulsory module LW5215 Criminology, Criminal Justice & Human Rights. Thereafter, students must choose 30 ECTS of Core modules and a further 20 ECTS of optional modules. Each module will be examined mainly by essay and/or oral presentation.

While we endeavour to ensure there are no timetabling clashes, it is important for students to ensure that it is possible to take their chosen modules and that they have registered for the required number of ECTS (a total number of 90 ECTS). Some modules may not run if there are not sufficient numbers of students as this would not allow for in-class discussion and critical engagement. Also, on occasions, module leaders may not be available if they are on sabbatical or other research leave.

Students must write a minor thesis of 15,000 words in one of the subject areas of the programme. It is advisable to begin thinking about your topic of interest for your thesis as you progress through semester 1. To help you focus on this, please note that there is a requirement to submit your proposed thesis title and brief outline of your research topic by 21st February 2025.

Towards the end of Semester 2, we will be running a workshop to assist you on refining your research methods and writing technique to assist you towards the completion of your minor thesis. Each student will have a member of the teaching staff on the LLM programme as their minor thesis supervisor (see section on Selecting a Supervisor).

The thesis will be completed between April and July.

PART-TIME MODE

In Year 1 students must take compulsory module LW5215 Criminology, Criminal Justice & Human Rights, one core module and one optional module.

In Year 2 students must take two core modules and one optional module and write a minor thesis (15,000 words) related to the themes of the course.

DURATION

Full-Time Mode

The programme is divided into two semesters. The first semester commences in September and runs through to December. The second semester begins in January and ends in April. The period April-July is devoted to the writing up of the minor thesis and terminates with the submission of the thesis in early August. During the two semesters candidates are required to attend a full course of seminars in each subject, while the third period, April-July, is devoted entirely to the research and writing required for the preparation of the final minor thesis.

Part-Time Mode

Year 1 commences in September and runs through to April (as above).

Year 2 commences in September and runs through to April, and the period from May to early August is devoted to the preparation of the minor thesis (as above).

MODULE OUTLINES

COMPULSORY MODULE

LW5215 Criminology, Criminal Justice & Human Rights (10 ECTS) Semester 1

Module Co-ordinator: Dr Roisin Mulgrew

Criminology, Criminal Justice and Human Rights is a compulsory module for students enrolled on the LLM Criminology, Criminal Justice and Human Rights programme. The objective of the module is to establish the cross-disciplinary focus of this post-graduate specialisation. The module begins with overviews of key principles, theories and structures in criminology and human rights law. This module then explores intersections of criminology/criminal justice and human rights from academic, research and advocacy perspectives. Students will be provided with training on pod-cast creation, graphic design and story-telling to enhance advocacy skills. Seminars on criminological and human rights research methods will enable students to understand methodological approaches and tools. Students will also benefit from summative assessment and minor dissertation workshops.

CORE MODULES - SELECT 30 ECTS

LW5216 Policing, Security and Rights (10 ECTS) Semester 1

Module Co-ordinator: Dr Illan Wall

Policing, Security and Rights will introduce students to the principles governing policing and security from a rights perspective. It will take a particular focus on the question of protest, unrest and civil discontent, exploring issues of security and policing as they come up against democratic protest rights. The module will think about surveillance and predictive policing, the use of force and policing moments of intense social unrest, adopting critical perspectives on how gender and race intersect with protest, policing and security.

LW439 Advocacy, Activism and Public Interest Law (10 ECTS) Semester 1

Module co-ordinator: Prof Donncha O'Connell

This new module will examine the role of advocacy and the dynamics of activism in advancing diverse forms and aspects of "the public interest". In particular, it will look at the advancement of the public interest through public interest law and litigation. Selected themes will be used to examine how the public interest, as understood broadly or by sectional interests, is advanced by recourse to public interest law. Practical concerns in the area of public interest litigation - such as locus standi, class and derivative actions and protective costs orders - will be discussed with a view to exploring the unrealised potential of public interest litigation in Ireland drawing on comparative experience in other jurisdictions. The module will also focus on the regulatory issues concerning non-governmental organisations, their relationship with the state, and selected themes, such as media reporting of public interest issues. There will be contributions from a diverse range of guest contributors including one or two small panels of speakers who will be invited to debate particular issues with participation by the class.

LW485 Sentencing and Penal Law Policy (10 ECTS) Semester 1

Module co-ordinator: Dr Rory Kelly / Mr Tom O'Malley

This module examines sentencing in doctrinal, theoretical, and comparative perspective. It engages with key questions such as how punishment can be justified; how the sentencing exercise should be structured; what factors ought to affect the severity of a sentence; and what are the current pressing issues in penal reform. In pursuit of an answer to these questions, the module will consider sentencing in Ireland, other domestic jurisdictions and international criminal law. The module will appeal, in particular, to students with an interest in criminal justice, criminal law; international law; human rights; and comparative law.

LW5117 International Human Rights Law (10 ECTS) Semester 1

Module co-ordinator: Niamh Keady Tabbal

This module aims to provide students with a general introduction to the sources, systems, and foundations of international human rights law. It also aims to include a critical lens that will give students the skills to apply the law utilising a robust understanding of the origins, impacts, and power of international human rights law.

LW5122 International Criminal Law (10 ECTS) Semester 1

Module co-ordinator: Prof Shane Darcy

The module introduces postgraduate students to the subject of international criminal law, focusing on substantive legal issues. During the course, students will explore the history and development of international criminal law, the established crimes under international law, the mechanisms of international criminal justice and general principles of international criminal law.

LW5214 Imprisonment and Rights (10 ECTS) Semester 2

Module co-ordinator: Dr Róisín Mulgrew

Imprisonment and Rights will provide postgraduate students interested in rights, punishment and imprisonment with insights into how international and regional law and policy govern the rights of prisoners. Students will learn about the legal grounds for the improvement and reform of prison regimes and explore critical scholarship on the ability of human rights law to contribute towards penal harm. Throughout the course, students will engage with substantive rights, judicial decisions, principles and recommendations from international and regional systems relevant to imprisonment and the protection of the rights of prisoners. Students will explore how standards have evolved over time and how independent oversight bodies fulfil their mandates to prevent torture, inhuman and degrading treatment and punishment within prisons. Students will critically examine how rights apply to particular types of prisoners (female, juvenile, transgender and foreign prisoners), can permit the use of intrusive, degrading means of control (body searches and solitary confinement) and regulate hunger-strikes. The course will examine particular themes (deaths in prisons) and look towards the future to identify foreseeable risks (conflict, climate and pandemics). Students also have the opportunity of learning from practitioners during a visit to a male and female prison.

LW5219 Minority Groups and the Criminal Justice System (10 ECTS) Semester 2

Module co-ordinator: Dr Charles O'Mahony

This module explores the experiences of minority groups in the criminal justice system. The module examines the development of the criminal justice system in Ireland and the theories underpinning law and policy in this area. The module explores theoretical and practical issues facing these groups when they come into contact with the criminal justice system. In addition to exploring Irish law there is a comparative law element to the course in examining the different themes. Ireland's obligations under international human rights law will also be explored (EG UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, the UN Convention on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women, UN Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination and the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities and the European Convention on Human Rights).

LW538 Transnational Justice (10 ECTS) Semester 2

Module co-ordinator: Dr Anita Ferrara

The module introduces post-graduate students to the debates, concepts and dilemmas in the relatively new field of transitional justice, exploring the various accountability mechanisms that exist in addition to international or domestic criminal prosecution.

LW525 Counter-Terrorism and Human Rights (5 ECTS) Semester 2

Module co-ordinator: Dr Brian Farrell/ Dr Rory Kelly

This module introduces students to human rights dimensions of global counterterrorism efforts. It will explore the definition of terrorism, the relevant legal frameworks and international responses, and the application of human rights norms to particular phenomena arising in state responses to terrorism. Throughout the course, we will analyze and critique how human rights are balanced against other considerations, such as national security.

LW530 Procedures before International Criminal Courts (5 ECTS) Semester 2

Module co-ordinator: Prof Shane Darcy

The module introduces students to the laws of procedure and evidence before international criminal courts and tribunals, with particular emphasis on the International Criminal Court. It explores the rights of the accused and the procedural law of the International Criminal Court at the pre-trial, trial, appeal and sentencing stages.

OPTIONAL MODULES – SELECT 20 ECTS

LW483 Advanced Legal Research and Methods (10 ECTS) Semester 1

Module Co-ordinator: Mr Larry Donnelly

This module will build on the research skills already acquired by students in their primary law degree programmes. The module will be closely linked with and designed to facilitate the writing components and the minor thesis requirement of all students on the programme. The emphasis will be on practical exercises which will include elements of the following: textual analysis, database training, literature review, research presentation, abstract writing, report writing and research evaluation.

LW5110 Human Rights Law Clinic (10 ECTS) Semester 1

Module Co-ordinator: Dr Maeve O'Rourke

This module introduces students to the concept of 'movement lawyering' (or, 'social change lawyering') and prepares and enables students to contribute to movements for human rights-based social change in Ireland and internationally. The module facilitates students to develop their knowledge, skills, ethical awareness and relationships with a view to influencing their future career paths while making concrete societal impact during the academic year. The Human Rights Law Clinic has a webpage on the Irish Centre for Human Rights website: <https://www.nuigalway.ie/irish-centre-humanrights/public/clinic/>

This is a 10 ECTS module, spread over two semesters.

LW471 International Humanitarian Law (10 ECTS) Semester 1

Module Co-ordinator: Prof Ray Murphy

This module provides students with an understanding of the different legal regimes of jus in bello and jus ad bellum; provide students with an appreciation of the general principles and laws that comprise international humanitarian law and to assess how these rules developed over time. To evaluate the application of these rules to case studies and scenarios and to critically analyse how IHL is enforced.

LW5121 Transnational Lawyering (5 ECTS) Semester 2

Module Co-ordinator: Dr Gearóid Ó Cuinn

TBC

LW5124 Climate Justice (5 ECTS) Semester 2

Module Co-ordinator: To be confirmed

The module engages postgraduate students with the topic of climate justice, exploring questions regarding the role of human rights in addressing climate change and environmental damage, and the relevant obligations of States and other actors (including business entities). It considers developments at the international and domestic level, including within the European and United Nations human rights system, international criminal justice, constitutional law and civil litigation.

LW5116 Gender and Human Rights (10 ECTS) Semester 2

Module Co-ordinator: Dr Anna Arstein Kerslake

The course aims at providing students with knowledge of the relationship between gender and human rights. It explores origins, development and challenges of integrating gender into human rights law discourse and practice: from inclusion of women to attention to LGBTI issues. The course introduces students to relevant international bodies and instruments. It also introduces students to the critical analysis of law through the study of feminist approaches and queer theory.

Please see table at the end of the guide outlining a full list of all modules available across the School of Law, the Centre for Disability Law and Policy and the Irish Centre for Human Rights.

ASSESSMENT CRITERIA

For each class, assessment is based primarily on written submissions. Some lecturers may include a percentage given for class participation and presentations. The assessment guidelines for each module should be consulted, and any queries on assessment should be directed to the individual lecturer responsible for the module.

All essays must be submitted via Canvas. You can download a receipt for submission. There is no need to email a copy to staff. Check with Canvas help for questions concerning submission, and follow instructions provided by your lecturer.

You must also include the following declaration with all coursework submitted.

"I , -----, do hereby declare that this work that is submitted for assessment is my own and that due credit has been given to all sources of information contained herein according to the rules that govern the School of Law. I acknowledge that I have read and understood University of Galway Academic Integrity policy and that I am bound by the policy.

PENALTIES FOR LATE SUBMISSION OF ESSAYS AND / OR MINOR THESIS

Up to and including 7 days late:

Where course work, essay(s) or minor thesis are submitted up to and including 7 days late, 5% will be automatically deducted from the mark achieved.

Up to and including 14 days late:

Where the work is submitted up to and including 14 days late, 10% will be automatically deducted from the mark achieved.

More than 14 Days Late:

Work submitted more than 14 days late will not be accepted.

Penalty Calculation

The percentages are specified by reference to the total marks available. For example, if a student submitted work worth 60% five days late, he or she would only be credited with 55%.

REPEAT EXAMINATIONS, ASSESSMENTS AND EXAMINATIONS APPEALS

If a fail mark is awarded for a module in Semester 1 or Semester 2, students will be required to resubmit by Friday, 1st August 2025. For details on examination appeals please see: <http://www.universityofgalway.ie/exams/results/appeals/>

Postgraduate Taught (PGT) Examination Boards

In accordance with the Postgraduate Marks and Standards, there are two PGT Examination Boards.

1st sitting

The PGT Summer Exam Board will consider results for Semesters 1 and 2.

It's important to note that compensation cannot be applied at the first sitting. If a module mark is not returned for a student, the result will be recorded as zero (fail), and their second sitting result will be capped at 40%, (Students can carry forward the mark of any component of their assessment that was passed e.g. a mark awarded for class participation or presentation) they will also be liable for a repeat fee of €295.

In the case of deferrals, capping and fees do not apply. Repeat assessments are capped at 40%.

The PGT Autumn Exam Board will consider repeat and deferred module results along with dissertation results. Overall awards will be considered, and compensation can be applied at this board.

If all results for a student have not been returned and considered by the PGT Autumn Board, it will be necessary for the student to repeat the year, incurring repeat fees for the year.

Plagiarism

Any copying of material from work by others, including by directly or indirectly quoting without acknowledging the source, is likely to be deemed an act of plagiarism. In other words, when you use someone else's work and present it as your own, it is plagiarism. The penalties for plagiarism are outlined in the University Academic Integrity policy and related documents, and in the School of Law policies. Please take measures to ensure that you are careful to acknowledge and correctly cite your sources, and please ensure that you are using authoritative sources, drawing on the reading lists assigned by staff and course materials.

Please note the following.

1. Where you have quoted from a source, you must use quotation marks to indicate the sections of the text that you are citing. It is NOT enough to just place a footnote at the end of the quote or paragraph. If the quote is verbatim (that is lifted directly from the text), then you must place the text inside quotation marks. This tells the reader not just that you derived the information from another source but that the words you are providing are the author's and not your own summary. After each end quote, you must place a footnote.
2. If you have paraphrased a statement or argument from another author (that is you are taking information from an article, book or data analysis from another author but are not quoting word for word, but rather summarizing the arguments in your own words) you do not need to place this text within quotes (as it is not a direct quotation) but you still must provide a footnote to signal that the argument or data is not yours, but from another author.

WORKLOAD/EXPECTATIONS

The LLM (Criminology, Criminal Justice & Human Rights) is a taught postgraduate degree consisting of seminars given on a weekly or twice weekly basis. However, students should note that the formats of these seminars differ considerably from undergraduate courses. At undergraduate level students merely take notes from the lecture given. At LLM level students will be given reading lists at the start of term and are expected to have familiarised themselves with the reading materials for each week in advance of the seminars. This prior preparation is essential in order for students to get full personal benefit from the seminar. Seminars are conducted in an interactive/ participative/ discursive style between students and lecturers. Students must come to the seminars having read the materials assigned and must be prepared to participate in the discussion. The examining process in each module will include oral presentation.

IMPORTANCE OF ATTENDANCE

The university is committed to providing students with a vibrant on-campus experience. Teaching will take place in person and online materials will act as a supplement to, but not a replacement for the in-person learning experience.

Attendance is not optional, but an obligatory requirement for students. Consistent attendance and participation in lectures and tutorials are the best way to get the most out of your education. There are many reasons why attendance is a key factor in your university experience:

- College semesters are short, and it is easy to fall behind. Consistent attendance is the best method to avoid falling behind in your studies.
- High levels of engagement and activity in classes and coursework will make it more likely that students will acquire a high level of knowledge and understanding of their chosen subjects, feel confident in their abilities and experience less stress during assessments and be better prepared for subsequent years.
- Non-attendance may be considered de facto withdrawal from a course and students may be unable to proceed to examination or subsequent registration. It is essential that first-year students are made aware of this requirement.
- The student grant (SUSI) scheme requires that attendance is monitored and reported on.
- Similarly, fees are paid by the State on behalf of students on the implicit understanding that the students are fully participating in the programmes for which they are registered.
- Many Schools and programmes already register attendance at each class and this should be continued. It is necessary, at the very least, to take attendance at key (or random) stages in the semester which can be reported for each School to Colleges and then to Academic Council.
- Research has shown convincingly that poor attendance results in lower levels of achievement and a higher chance of failure and withdrawal from programmes.
- If students have any concerns regarding the quality of the teaching or learning experience in any of their scheduled classes (or other components of their modules) they should provide feedback using the various channels at their disposal (for example, module questionnaires, Class Reps, Liaison committees) so that any issues may be resolved or considered, as appropriate. Non-attendance is not a means of raising any such issues and may be interpreted, rather, as a reflection of student commitment levels.

The School of Law aims to support students to succeed in their degrees. Because of the importance of attendance, The School does engage in some targeted attendance monitoring in lectures and tutorials. The purpose of this is not to be punitive but supportive. We are acutely aware of the difficulties students may face when it comes to attendance (illness, care responsibilities, lack of accommodation etc). If we are aware of these issues, we can put in place supports to address them. Attendance monitoring is one way of doing this.

Clearly, there will be extenuating circumstances faced by students from time to time, such as illness and other personal difficulties. Students in these situations should notify the appropriate person responsible for their course so that appropriate measures can be taken.

ENGAGEMENT WITH COURSEWORK

Enrolment on a full-time programme means a commitment to 40-50 hours of total student effort per week throughout all the weeks of each semester. The scheduled classes (lectures, tutorials, laboratories, etc) are only one component of the total effort that is required in order to succeed. Assessments and assigned coursework are designed on the basis that students are undertaking the full effort required and are not just based on material covered in scheduled class time alone.

Students should make sure that they timetable in their own diaries adequate time for study, reading, coursework and revision across the semester. Success at university level is not possible through cramming at the last minute.

PROGRAMME QUERIES

Queries about the programme in general should be addressed to the programme director. Queries about individual modules should be addressed in the first instance to the lecturer concerned and if not sufficient to the programme director.

CONSULTATION WITH LECTURERS

All School of Law staff set aside regular times for consultation with students and these times are notified in class and/or on Canvas.

SCHOOL OF LAW RESEARCH SEMINAR SERIES

The School of Law organises Research Seminars throughout the Academic year. See the Law School website for details of past and future Seminars. LLM students are encouraged to attend and participate.

SCHOOL OF LAW WEBSITE

The School of Law website is an important source of information for LLM students. The website contains a range of information about the teaching, research and other activities of the School of Law. The website also allows access for current students to relevant documentation pertaining to their programme and provides links to other University and law-related sites. Full staff biographies are available on the School of Law page and provides information on their research expertise and teaching.

The student online learning facility Canvas is used for uploading course materials and interactions between students and teaching staff in relation to course content.

Correspondence with students will be through Canvas. It is important that you check your e-mails regularly. Important details of assignment submission dates, conferences etc. will be placed on CANVAS also.

Students are urged to check their University of Galway e-mails regularly as sometimes opportunities become available at short notice and these opportunities are communicated via e-mail as is various other information about the programme. Students are also encouraged to like the School of Law, University of Galway page on Facebook.

MINOR THESIS (30 ECTS)

In order to be eligible for the award of the LLM degree, a candidate must submit a minor thesis of not more than 15,000 words. Students are required to submit their minor thesis topic title by Friday, 21st February 2025 and the submission date for the thesis is Friday, 1st August 2025.

SELECTION OF TOPICS

Topics must be selected in conjunction with and approved by lecturers from any of the core courses or options or related areas.

An information session will take place on Monday 9th September 2024. The session will introduce students to the programme content. During this session, lecturers who will be teaching courses in Semesters 1 and 2 will present an introduction to their subjects. Not only will this provide students with an understanding of the themes of the LLM programme, it will also give you a good indication of the content of the Semester 2 courses to aid you in your choice of minor thesis topic. An advisory session relating to minor theses will be scheduled for Semester 2. In previous years the advisory session involved presentations to students on selecting the topic of your minor thesis; how to write a minor thesis; how to identify your research questions, etc.

SELECTION OF A SUPERVISOR

When seeking a supervisor students should first approach lecturers from any of the core courses or options or related areas by email.

Lecturers are only required to supervise a specified number of minor theses. The limit for each member of staff will be decided when the total numbers of students registered for the degree is confirmed. In the case of the LLM (Criminology, Criminal Justice & Human Rights) the maximum for any member of the teaching staff will normally be five. Students are advised to approach staff members with regard to supervision of their minor thesis in good time.

Supervisors will advise candidates in relation to the submission of their minor thesis title, research questions and the final version of the minor thesis.

Please bear in mind that lecturers have busy schedules, and that they supervise other LLM and PhD students, and undergraduate students. Staff also have University administration and research commitments. Do not be unreasonable in your expectations as to the time it takes them to review written proposals, bibliographies, and outlines. In addition, much of this work is done during the summer months, when lecturers may be taking their annual leave. It is prudent to bear all of this in mind and to discuss a schedule for writing, reviews and meetings with your supervisor as early as possible.

SUBMISSION OF MINOR THESIS

Submission of minor thesis title: 5pm on Friday, 21st February 2025. Please email your thesis title to lawthesis@universityofgalway.ie. The purpose of this deadline is to ensure that you begin the process of identifying a minor thesis topic and give consideration to which member of staff you will ask to supervise your research over the summer period. Failure to submit a minor thesis title by the deadline may result in failure to obtain supervision from your preferred supervisor in your preferred area of research.

Final Minor Thesis: (100%); to be submitted by 5pm on Friday, 1st August 2025. Please email the final thesis to lawthesis@universityofgalway.ie and also upload a copy to LW450 Dissertation on CANVAS.

OTHER INFORMATION

If, for some reason agreed with the programme director, your chosen supervisor is from outside the programme, a lecturer associated with the programme must be appointed as overall supervisor.

The deadline for submission of the form indicating minor thesis topic and signed by the supervisor is 5pm on Friday, 21st February 2025.

By that date students must have completed the minor thesis registration form by giving the title chosen, subject area and name and signature of supervisor. The form is annexed to this guide. The completed form must be returned by email to lawthesis@universityofgalway.ie

These are FINAL deadlines, and students are free to submit the title and supervisor's form at an earlier date if desired.

RELATIONSHIP WITH SUPERVISORS

Once your supervisor has agreed to oversee your minor thesis work and has approved the topic chosen there must be agreement on a schedule of meetings to suit both parties.

The onus is on the student to confirm the date of the next meeting at the end of each supervisory session. Neither you nor your supervisor should cancel scheduled meetings without good reason, and if a meeting is cancelled you should re-arrange the meeting as quickly as possible.

Regular meetings with your supervisor are recommended in the second semester with a record kept of the time and date of each meeting. These meetings can take place on campus or online. Keeping a record of the meeting is to benefit both student and supervisors and to ensure that time spent at each meeting is productive and concentrated on a specific issue. It should be noted by students that the supervisor's role in the researching and writing process is confined to offering guidance and supervision - the student alone must take on the work of compiling the substantive research needed and of writing the minor thesis.

A good working relationship with your supervisor is essential. If you are dissatisfied or uneasy about any aspect of the relationship, discuss the matter with, in this order:

1. your supervisor
2. the relevant module co-ordinator
3. the programme director

In extreme cases, where the relationship with your supervisor breaks down completely, it may be necessary to consider changing supervisors. Note, however, that a change of supervisor can be unsettling and disruptive and should be considered as a solution of last resort. Note also that a change of supervisor is conditional upon the availability of suitable alternative supervisors within the School of Law. Any change must be agreed in advance with the programme director and then notified to Lorna Cormican (lorna.cormican@universityofgalway.ie) School of Law administration, for our records.

CONTACTING SUPERVISORS BETWEEN MEETINGS

You should be able to contact your supervisor for advice and assistance at other reasonable times outside your planned schedule. You must ensure that you know your supervisor's work e-mail address in case you need to get in touch. The onus is on you to contact your supervisor quickly if you run into difficulty, without waiting for the next planned meeting. You are responsible for ensuring that your supervisor knows how to get in touch with you during normal working hours.

MAINTAINING CONTACT DURING PERIODS OF ABSENCE FROM THE UNIVERSITY

If your supervisor plans to be away from the university, they will let you know in advance. If necessary, a temporary replacement supervisor will be arranged. If you want to work away from the university (e.g., fieldwork, placement), you must obtain your supervisor's agreement and the School of Law's permission. You must maintain effective contact with your supervisor by either e-mail or online communication while you are working away, even if an external supervisor is appointed for you.

If you are unexpectedly absent, report any unintended absence or sick leave to your supervisor as soon as possible. This is particularly important if you are in receipt of a studentship, as you must comply with your funding bodies' rules about absence, including absence due to sickness.

AVAILABILITY OF SUPERVISORS DURING THE PERIOD MAY - JULY

Supervisors will normally be busy marking undergraduate examinations during the period from the middle of May until early July. Contact during that period may be maintained by e-mail. Each student should aim to have much of the substantive research completed by the start of the summer vacation, leaving the holiday period free for refining and perfecting the minor thesis.

Students should not expect supervisors to be readily available during this time, as the School of Law members will have research commitments and responsibilities during the summer months.

The School will endeavour to have a rota in place over this time to answer urgent queries. A School of Law member shall be available one day a week to meet students in person. Otherwise, the fastest and most effective means of contact with your supervisor is the use of e-mail.

Supervisors will advise you right up to the time you and they feel confident that you are ready to go it alone. While the supervisor may agree to read short sections for you in the early stages to ensure that your approach and writing style are appropriate, supervisors are NOT expected to read full or substantial drafts of the thesis in the later stages.

Note: Supervisors may be asked to report to the School of Law on the progress of a student. The School of Law will not accept an essay or minor thesis which a staff member has not had the opportunity to supervise adequately. The approval of the relevant staff member acting as supervisor is very important in this process.

SUBMISSION REQUIREMENTS

The deadline for submission of the final minor thesis is Friday, 1st August 2025. Requirements for submission are posted on the website of the Graduate Studies office <https://www.universityofgalway.ie/graduatestudies/>. Please consult the website of the Graduate Studies Office for up-to-date information. We will issue specific guidelines for submission of hard copies, electronic copies and an electronic copy for the library.

Approval of late submissions shall be determined on a case-by-case basis by the LLM Programme Board in exceptional circumstances, e.g., illness, death of a relative, summer placement connected with aspects of the course (please see previous Extenuating Circumstances Policy)

GUIDELINES FOR MINOR THESIS

MASTERS THESIS LAYOUT (Taught Degree)

1. A thesis must be submitted in the registered name, i.e., the name on the student's ID card, which reflects the name on the student's birth certificate. MASTERS THESIS SUBMISSION

1. Please upload an electronic copy to Canvas.
2. E-mail an electronic copy of your minor thesis to lawthesis@universityofgalway.ie and to your supervisor.
3. Upload a copy of your dissertation to Canvas on the LW450 Dissertation page.
4. If you wish to submit your thesis electronically to the library this can be done via the Library website under 'About our Collections' & 'Theses'; however, this is optional.

<https://library.universityofgalway.ie/collections/theses/#>

Please note that your minor thesis supervisor has to approve your minor thesis to be made available online. You may be required to make changes to your thesis before it is accepted for submission online. Your supervisor will communicate any required changes to you.

Please note also that any student whose thesis has not been submitted by the University's final deadline will have to re-register and pay fees for a further year.

ONLINE LEGAL RESEARCH

LLM students should be aware of the following online sources of law, which are available to registered students through the university homepage, www.universityofgalway.ie. Law students at University of Galway can simply turn on any computer at the university, or off-campus via a password, click on "Library" and access an alphabetical list of databases appearing on the right side of the screen. The following are just some of the databases students can benefit from utilising.

Celex: This is the official database of the European Union, available to the library due to its status as a European Documentation Centre.

Current Legal Information: This database includes a current law index, weekly case updates, an index to legal journals and articles appearing therein, as well as a financial journals index.

EuroLaw: This database contains the full text of many European treaties, legislation and case law.

GPO: This database contains the full text of a vast array of United States Government publications.

Hein-on-Line: This database contains the full text of over 700 North American law journals and is "somewhat searchable."*

Index to Legal Periodicals: This user-friendly, searchable database allows its users to obtain the full citations for journal articles in over 1,000 academic law journals.

Lexis-Nexis Professional: This very user-friendly, completely searchable and incredibly comprehensive database contains the full text of tens of millions of cases, statutes and journal articles from across the globe.

Murdoch's Irish Legal Companion: This user-friendly database is an online dictionary of thousands of legal terms, ranging from the very basic to the highly complex.

Westlaw.IE: This is a very user-friendly and completely searchable database of Irish primary and secondary legal sources. Of particular utility is the online access to the full text of the Irish Law Times, especially because other Irish legal journals remain accessible in bound volume only.

Students on the LLM Programme will receive extensive, and on-going, formal and informal training in computerised legal research. In the process, students will become fluent in the usage of the above databases and of the ever increasing and incredibly powerful Internet sites devoted to legal research, www.legalcitation.ie (General citation information), www.irlii.org (Irish law), www.bailii.org (British and Irish law), <http://europa.eu/> (European law) and www.findlaw.com (North American law) perhaps foremost among them.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR STUDENTS ON THE LLM (Criminology, Criminal Justice & Human Rights)

During the course of the LLM year, a number of opportunities will be presented to the class to attend virtual conferences and present papers at conferences. Financial assistance may be available in the form of travel expenses (bus/train) and, where necessary, accommodation. In the event of many students wishing to attend a particular event, those interested will be invited to apply and two will be selected.

Please note that conference attendance will be dependent on the public health situation during AY 2024-2025.

SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

STUDENT SERVICES <https://www.universityofgalway.ie/student-services/>

The University experience is exciting, enjoyable and fulfilling, but it is also a challenging time for students. At University of Galway we aim to provide our students with a platform of security from which students can meaningfully engage with University life. While the day-to-day life of a student is, to a large extent, focussed on academic work, there are many complimentary opportunities for personal development, for example through Sports Clubs and Student Societies. It is our experience that the student-to-student support provided through the network of student clubs and societies is a very useful resource in dealing with the challenges of University life.

INFORMATION SOLUTIONS AND SERVICES <https://www.universityofgalway.ie/iss4students/>

The Service Desk is available to provide a technical support facility to all staff and students. Service Desk staff deal with administrative queries, account queries, technical queries and record hardware and software service requests and fault reports. Please login to the Service Desk Ticketing system (ISS Ticket Desk) or email the Service Desk (servicedesk@universityofgalway.ie).

ADMISSIONS OFFICE <https://www.universityofgalway.ie/postgrad-admissions/>

The admissions office web page provides, among others, information concerning term dates, fees and funding and the university map.

ACCOMMODATION OFFICE Accommodation Office

The staff of the accommodation office can help students find appropriate accommodation in Student Residences, flats, apartments or houses. The staff can also help if problems arise with property owners. The accommodation office works in conjunction with several groups to assist students with their accommodation problems including Galway Threshold and www.findahome.ie

COUNSELLORS Counselling

If there are any issues that are troubling you, consult the counsellors as early as you can. Counsellors are skilled in the art of listening and have wide experience in dealing with the variety of situations and issues which students encounter. They are caring and friendly professionals to whom, over the years, students have turned for help with every conceivable problem, ranging from work related stress to coping with personal loss and grief. If you would like to set up an appointment please email: counselling@universityofgalway.ie.

DISABILITY SUPPORT SERVICE <https://www.universityofgalway.ie/disability/>

The above page offers advice and information on how to access the service and the kinds of supports available to students with disabilities. We hope this will answer some of your queries about the service.

University of Galway is committed to Equality of Opportunity and positively values the participation of students with disabilities in its educational and other programmes. The university welcomes applications from students with disabilities and makes provision, wherever possible, to facilitate access and participation.

STUDENT HEALTH UNIT https://www.universityofgalway.ie/health_unit/

The health unit at University of Galway provides a totally confidential GP service. The Student Health Unit continues to operate in line with Public Health advice and guidance to reduce the risk of any potential COVID-19 virus transmission among our students and staff. Therefore, for the foreseeable future, the Student Health Unit will continue to operate on a very strict 'BY PRIOR APPOINTMENT ONLY' basis to ensure that optimal infection prevention and control measures can be maintained at all times. Students must be registered for the current academic year in order to avail of this service.

Students are not permitted to enter the student health unit facility without first contacting the practice.

To arrange an appointment online please click here
https://www.universityofgalway.ie/health_unit/bookonline/

This service is monitored from Monday to Friday ONLY. For Urgent queries please telephone (091) 492604.

Services include: Acne treatment, Meningitis Vaccination, Vaccinations for travel, Eating disorders and problems with obesity, Psychological disorders (there is a psychiatrist). Physiotherapy. Referral to consultants.

SPORT AND RECREATION <https://sport.universityofgalway.ie/>

Now, more than ever, sport is a vital part of University life as it offers all its participants the opportunity to remain fit and healthy and enables students to balance the pressures of academic life. Our intention in the University of Galway Sport and Recreation Department is to offer sport for all. A recreational and competitive programme exists for each student. Our students are our primary responsibility. There are regular classes where you can acquire new expertise, or improve existing skills, with professional tuition. If you are attracted by competitive activities, intervarsity sport may be of special interest.

SOCIETIES OFFICE <https://socs.universityofgalway.ie/>

The societies' office provides a wide range of services and support for the university societies. With over 60 societies there is never a dull moment. Riona Hughes, the Societies Officer, is available to advise on the wide range of activities available through the societies. If you are not already involved in a society there is no better way to make friends, learn new skills, go on exciting trips and have fun than joining a society or two. If you are one of the hard working society committee members or are thinking of setting up a new society you are welcome to call up to the societies office and find out what facilities we have available for you.

UNIVERSITY OF GALWAY LAW SOCIETY

<https://socs.universityofgalway.ie/societies/lawsoc>

The Law Society is one of the largest and most active societies on campus. It provides a forum for debate on a wide range of engaging subjects, and not just from the sphere of Law. Through inviting knowledgeable and entertaining speakers it seeks to provoke discussion in a relaxed atmosphere for students, and welcomes members from all faculties.

FLAC CLINIC ON CAMPUS

A FLAC clinic has been established on campus and is run by law students following training and with appropriate advice from qualified practitioners. Students interested in participating should contact the student Law Society.

THE DISABILITY LEGAL INFORMATION CLINIC ON CAMPUS

<https://www.universityofgalway.ie/centre-disability-law-policy/dlic/>

The Disability Legal Information Clinic was launched by the Attorney General in Autumn 2011 and is a joint venture between the Centre for Disability Law and Policy (CDLP) and the University of Galway Free Legal Advice Centre Society. The clinic has two main goals - to provide a drop-in information service on legal issues related to disability, and to serve as a research resource for practitioners and organisations on aspects of disability law.

STUDENTS UNION <https://su.universityofgalway.ie/>

Every student who registers at University of Galway automatically becomes a member of the Students' Union. Members are entitled to numerous benefits including representation by the Students' Union officers, membership of the Students' Union Club (College Bar) and access to a wide range of Students' Union services. So, if you need legal help, help with educational problems, direction or advice with your life at University of Galway, just contact the Students' Union officers. You pay the wages of the four sabbatical officers so don't be afraid to make use of them.

CAREERS SERVICE <https://www.universityofgalway.ie/career-development-centre/>

The mission of the Careers Service team is to provide a quality careers guidance and information service focused on facilitating and empowering students within the University of Galway to manage their own career development.

Who do we help? The full range of our services is available to the following clients:

- Current undergraduates
- Current postgraduates
- Graduates – up to 3 years after graduation
- Employers
- Members of University of Galway staff
- Current students from Irish Universities or Institutes of Technology and UK Universities (some restrictions apply).
